Experience

Provision Tracker, Cool Milk House, Lincoln, LN6 3TA

November 2017
- Present

Product Development Manager

Provision Tracker (SAAS) is a cloud based cost-benefit analysis tool for the education sector, built to my design. Our target market consisted of primary schools in England. The product offers a detailed view of the effectiveness of SEN interventions, evaluating the academic progress against school financial investment and time spent with individual pupil's or groups with additional learning needs.

Additional Interests

I am currently a team leader for one of the company values teams. I am responsible for organizing charitable events and collections for our nominated company charity, NSPCC.

I set up and manage an employee tuck shop within the company which has raised over £1000 for the nominated charity since summer 2017.

With a true passion for computer science, I enjoy studying software development, refining my Photoshop skills and creating videos in premiere pro outside of the office. The marketing, tutorial and review videos visible on Provision Tracker's social media profiles were all created by myself.
